THE SUPERVISORY BOARD'S REMIT

The Supervisory Board is responsible for ensuring that the Norwegian Correctional Service complies with applicable rules and human rights.

The Supervisory Board is also responsible for monitoring the execution of remand and prison sentences outside the institutions of the Correctional Service. This includes:

- Remand in specific accommodation with electronic monitoring
- Execution of sentences at home either with or without electronic monitoring
- Community sentences or unpaid work in lieu of a fine
- Drug intervention programme supervised by the courts and programme to combat drink-driving
- Follow-up of persons released on probation with duty of attendance

Talking to the Supervisory Board is voluntary. The Supervisory Board does not have access to private homes, except with the consent of the convicted person, accused or person who has been fined.

The Supervisory Board cannot annul, reverse or amend the content of a decision or a ruling by a court.

CONTACTING THE SUPERVISORY BOARD

You can contact the Supervisory Board regarding your welfare while on probation. Your calls with the Supervisory Board are confidential. These calls will not be monitored and any written communication will not be read.

The Supervisory Board is subject to a duty of secrecy.

You can contact the Supervisory Board by telephone or by writing to us in a letter or e-mail. Relatives are also free to contact the Supervisory Board.

You will find the Supervisory Board's contact details on the back of this brochure.
